WANTED Exchange Student

For three years the Tiger Tales staff has been trying to get the student council and other organizations interested in sponsoring a foreign exchange student. Our crusading did not seem to have much result.

But now the French Club has taken this responsibility over. They intend to bring a French student to Norman High. This is not just their job. The entire school should help. Every club, organization, and each class should give money for this purpose.

ALL STUDENTS SHOULD BE CRUSADERS FOR AN EX-CHANGE STUDENT. WILL YOU

Norman High's newspaper for 1963-64 received 'With Highest Honors." The critic, Dr. Max Hadfick of the University of Texas, judged the paper on issues published b e f o r e March 1. Maridee Bailey was elected First Vice-President of Oklahoma Journalism students (OIPA); Mrs. Childs was ating.

Tiger Tales won the highest crit- | elected president of journalism directors of Oklahoma (OAJD).

Winning certificates in writing contests were Anne Pilling, second in news writing and Nancy Herrick, fourth in feature writing. Ed Bucher worked on the university's paper during the day.

Guest speaker at the luncheon was Mr. Milton Garber, Enid publisher and president of the Oklahoma Press Association. He emphasized to the 800 delegates that more journalists are needed by newspapers and magazines every year than the colleges are gradu-

Senior Honored By Track Team

Carol McDade was chosen honor attendant to the queen in the Annual Bison Relay race at Shawnee on April 14.

Representing the Norman High track team, Carol was chosen second in the contest, and so becoming the honor attendant. Contestants were judged according to pictures and lists of their activities and achievements.

Jim Wells, track team captain, escorted Carol in the coronation which preceeded the final events in the meet.

'I Dare You' Book Given to Boy, Girl

Mary Alice Eurton and Sandy McGee have received the 'I Dare You' Book Award presented annually by the Danforth Foundation to the outstanding senior boy and girl.

Mary Alice, cheerleader this year, is in Future Teachers and Candystripers. She was Girls' State Representative, attendant to All-School queen, student council two years and Who's Who. Last year she was voted the Friendliest junior girl.

Sandy, also in Who's Who, has lettered in basketball for two years. He belongs to State and National Honor Societies and plans to teach government and coach after he finishes college.

FFA To Entertain At Annual Dinner

The Norman chapter of the Future Farmers of American will crown their FFA queen, Miss Becky Berry, at 8:30 tonight in the auditorium after the annual basket dinner for parents and friends in the cafeteria.

Becky will be crowned by Mickey Haynes, president. Honor attendants, Judy Tiller and Cheryl Craig, will be escorted by Dale Horton and Ted LaMar. Other attendants include Carol Taylor escorted by John Potts: Sharon Jordon, by Billy Tucker: Carolyn Coates, by David Meiser. and Gloria Kerby, by Phil Dees.

Annual awards for all phases of agriculture will be presented before the coronation. These include Foundation medals, Catherine Mayfield scholarship award, outstanding senior, leadership award and savings bonds for achievements.

Norman Chapter Given Recognition For Medal Sales

The Future Homemakers of America received a special Honor Roll Award recently at the state FHA convention in Oklahoma City in recognition of the medallions sold to help send Oklahoma's exhibit to the World's Fair.

Twenty-four girls under the direction of Miss Hope Wood, sponsor, and student teachers. Miss Lynda Harris and Miss Jane Schan attended the state convention whose theme was "Homes Make Oklahoma." The Norman Chapter was one of 61 award winners of a total of 350 chapters.

The club has undertaken the project of making place cards for special days for senior citizens at the Temple Nursing Home.

THE FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA WILL HOLD A CAR WASH MAY 9, AT THE APCO STATION, 1415 W. MAIN. THE PRICE IS ONE DOLLAR.

Is U.S. Wrong?

By 1970 one half of the world's population will live in Red China. Yet this is a country which we refuse to recognize or hardly admit exists. Functioning as an established nation, Red China is recognized by all major powers except the United States.

Our argument is that the United States does not condone the way the country came into being nor the way they seek to gain possession of other countries or control their own people; therefore, we do not accept the country.

But does acknowledgement always denote acceptance? How can nations know each other unless they are able to communicate with one another, providing a means for free exchange of ideas. This is next to impossible without diplomatic relations.

Acknowledgement doesn't have to mean acceptance. Yet it is a good start towards understanding and in turn a peaceful acceptance of others all involved.

Disuse Causes Rust

"Too much rest is rust" is an old but meaningful phrase. Machinery, when left unused and uncared for, eventually rusts. Food, when left for too long, becomes spoiled or stale. Sometimes the bad part can be removed, leaving the object almost as good as new. Often it cannot. The object is then useless.

People are the same way. When knowledge or talent goes unused, it becomes rusty or stale. Acting, like a machine, the brain should be continually used and cared for. It should be "oiled" regularly by study or good reading prevents its rusting or becoming obsolete.

By resting your brain more than using it, it forms the rust of forgetfulness and usefulness. And often as not, knowledge lost can never be regained. D'Anne Mount (JI)

Goals Take Work

"True Glory lies in one's deeds."-Cicero

Cicero was speaking from a long ago past, but this is true in today's world also. Those who perform many worthy deeds receive the highest praise and gain the most from their fulfillment of their ambitions.

Students should think about this. Mary has the desire to become a nurse, but she never prepares for classes designed to bring about this goal. She joins no school organizations which will help, or joins and never takes part in the program.

John wants to be an engineer. He not only studies to maintain a commendable grade average but becomes a participating member of all clubs that will help him. He does not depend on desire alone to make his dreams come true.

Deeds, not dreams alone, will help a person to achieve his goal.

Pam Oviatt (JI)

Keep That Promise

Jane promised Kathy she would meet her after school for a coke. Kathy waited for 15 minutes, but Jane never came. At last Kathy left by herself.

Kathy had counted on Jane to do as she had promised. Too many times people fail to do as they promised, either because they forget or just don't care. "A promise made is a debt unpaid," is an old saying, though one which has survived because of its truthfulness. A promise made but not carried out is truly a payment owed.

All people are dependent on others for something. If no promises were kept, not only individuals but nations would have much trouble.

The next time you make a promise, try to keep it. Pay your debts.

Susan Luttrell (JI)

SEATO, NATO Both Vital Links

The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) is similar to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in that members in both have agreed to help defend any other member nation against aggression.

A closer study of both organizations, however, points up a basic difference between the two. SEATO does not maintain a military force as does NATO.

SEATO has a Military Planning Office which helps members work together in military endeavors. The Office accomplishes this end by holding military exercises for the land, sea and air combat forces of the member nations.

A basic similarity of the two organizations is that they are both important to the United States, because they are vital links in our defense of the free world.

Study of History Key to Errors

Cicero once said, "Who knows only his own generation remains always a child." No one denies the fact that Cicero was a wise man, but many students still persist in evading history or government courses.

History tells students what life was like in past generations and eras. Perhaps by reading of the mistakes other countries and civilizations have made in the past, this generation can prevent the same mistakes from happening again. It has often been said that history repeats itself.

Students probably should think of learning history as a duty to the world. Who knows? Maybe the study of history will someday prevent World War III.

Letter to Editor

Editor:

Recently, I attended an Oklahoma Interscholastic Press Association Convention, and, for the first time in my life, I can honestly say that I'm ashamed to be a teenager.

I have never seen so many rude students in my life, although I must say that the students who represented Norman High were attentive and polite. As for some other schools, I was embarrassed to be around them. Anyone who can sit and talk and disturb the speaker and the people who were really trying to learn doesn't know the meaning of manners. Then to sit at a banquet and rattle forks, spoons and knives and talk and laugh when people were giving campaign speeches and, even. when the guest speaker was talking is the worst kind of rudeness. I couldn't even hear what was being said above the roar, and I sat right up by the speaker's table!

If those students were not interested enough to be polite and listen, they should have stayed home, instead of bothering interested people. Even then, they should have had enough manners to be quiet. Maybe, they need a refresher course in manners.

Now, I understand why m a n y adults criticize teen-agers, because they see what a few rude, ill-mannered students do. If all of us are going to be like that, then I'm ashamed to be a teenager!

Mother! Please! Get off the Phone

By ANNE PILLING

Have you ever tried to limit an important," or unimportant telenone conversation to 30 minutes? mel my parents won't let me ik for any longer than that on be phone.

Of course, I have a system of ming around that. I just have or her, as the case may e call right back and then I premd surprise and talk for another minutes.

Once I was talking to a "fella" the 'phone. Suddenly!

-Get off the 'phone, you've ked long enough.

-Mother, what are you doing on extension?

-Oh, I just happened to be in e den and . . .

-Well, hello ma'am.

-Hi. I haven't seen you around re lately.

No, I've been studying pretty rd lately.

- Cough, cough) Mother!! G e t the line.

You see, either I have to limit talk, or have mother butt in monopolize the conversation.

Bet I'm the only girl who has s call her just so they can listo her mother's English acint 1

Balloons, Tags, Cheers, Band, Even 'Beatles'?

By Mary Jane Gatchel and Pam Oviatt

Through a doorway somewhat resembling a Tahitian hut came the dynamic sounds of David Carrier's trombone playing "When The Saints Come Marching In." New decorations in the band room?

No!-Mrs. Teall's room during the political campaigns!

Balloons, banners, posters, ags. ribbons and rousing chants mansformed a classroom into political headquarters for six well-supported candidates.

Opening a scheduled press conserence with the distribution of oringe candy, William Scranton, alas Mark Hinshaw, recognized a blonde on the back row who was not Pete Vaughn.

Three Firsts Taken By Remy, Campbell

Coach Bob Williams thinclads scored 23 points to place third at the tough Oklahoma City Invitational track meet.

Remy ran the low hurdles in 19.5, the best time in the state this season, and the highs in 14.9. Campbell won the pole vault in 11.6.

Bill Reese placed third in the 440. The mile and 880 relay placed third and fourth respectively.

Norman Whips Ardmore Nine

Norman evened their conference baseball record at 2-2 by nipping Ardmore 4-2 and 16-13.

Delmar Dean upped his record to 2-1 by recording the first game win.

Terry Patty scored the first Tiger run in the second inning on an Ardmore fielding error. Greg Akard then scored on back singles by Robert Gilmore and Fred Christian.

Norman scored again in the fourth and fifth innings.

Glenn Miller won his first game of the season, as the hitters had a field day in the 16-13 Tiger win. Norman came from 7 runs behind to claim the victory.
