

Senior Ed Bertalan relaxes between classes in front of the lightwell.

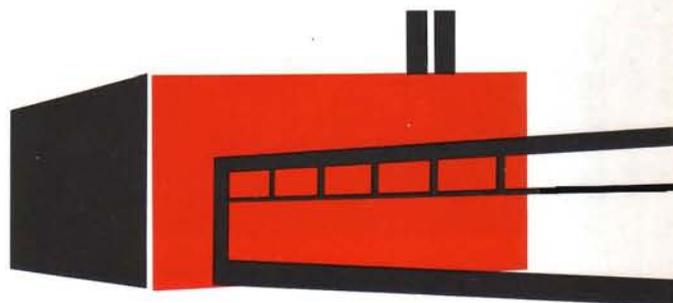

"Gee this sucker is good," says Mike Elder to Debbie Faubion at the Halloween Dance.

Anna (Susan Luttrell) greets the King (Lynn Dixon) in The King and I.

The "Naughty Nine" entertain the student body at NHS's first hootenanny of the year.

SCHOOL LIFE

Marching on to victory is the Norman High School Band, who came out to lead our first victory march before we played Stillwater.

All aboard for a victory! Loyal Norman High School fans ride in an orange and black jeep in the Lawton victory march.

Junior Gingersnaps promote school spirit during the Ardmore pep assembly.

Spir

Spirit

Tiger Spirit

Thunder! Thunder! Thunderation!
We're the Tiger delegation.
When we yell with dedication,
We create a big sensation!

Thunder! Thunder! Thunderation!
We're the best team in the nation!
When we fight with determination,
We create a big sensation!

"All for Norman, stand up and holler!" Gail Giffert, Sandy Renegar, Margaret Council, Patsy Hoge, D'Anne Mount, and Laura O'Connell lead the Tigers in a rousing cheer during the Norman-Shawnee game.

To Go o Fight Brings Delight

The victory flag flies proudly over Norman High School after every win.

The A-go-go generation
Filled with spirit and with cheer,
Helped our Tigers on to victory
And made this the greatest year.

The Gingersnaps, the band,
The cheerleaders, and the fans
All gave their support
To each and every sport.

With their loyalty and will
And tremendous Tiger skill,
Our teams came out great.
Yes, our Tigers really rate!

To instill spirit in the Tiger football team, the Gingersnaps spent long hours on these signs, wishing each player good luck.

Tiger victories bring gleeful delight to adoring fans.

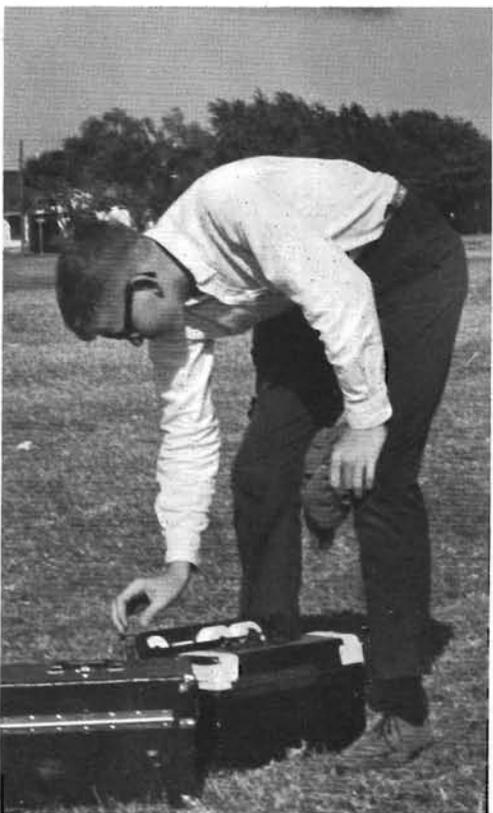

The Tiger cheerleaders prance proudly before the Gingersnaps on a victory march.

"Heave, ho! Tigers go!" Norman High School prepares for another great football season.

"Hang on Sloopy!" Roger Haferkamp, Linda Franklin, Tim Thomas, and Alice Rinehart outsing the Pharoahs at the Howdy Hop.

Click! Instant Victory! Jim "Zippy" Logan finds a sure way to a Tiger win.

Seniors keep up the tradition of meeting in the Student Center before class.

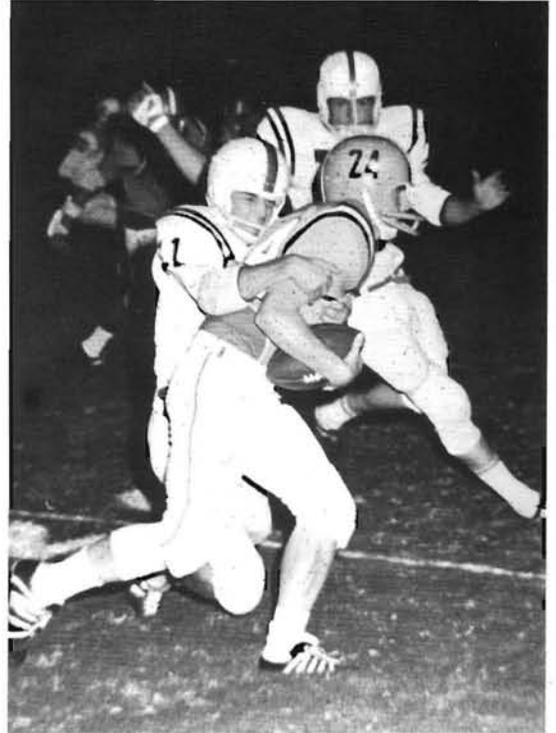

"You don't really want five study halls and P.E. do you?" Sharon Council asks Karen Jennings during registration.

October

Dick Schory and his percussion band entertain the Tigers during a special assembly.

Untamable Tiger Paul Blevins refuses to be taken down while making yardage for the team.

The TRAIL photographer gets the "evil eye" from Ann Key and Dana Wilson during one of the school assemblies.

Martha Monical, Bill Haddock, Rob Amspacher, and Rob Smitson pose for the annual picture of the Norman chapter of the "Hell's Angels."

"Oh, Kenny, you remembered me!" Jean Holcomb jumps for joy when Kenny Grubaugh (Martha Monical) recognizes her in the TRAIL assembly.

November

Lynn Dixon portrays the puzzled King of Siam in The King and I.

Taking the Tigers on to their final victory over Tulsa Hale is Paul Blevins.

Susan Luttrell is skillfully playing the part of an English school teacher in Siam in The King and I.

Smiling happily after being chosen for the All-conference football team are Kenny Grubaugh, Paul Blevins, and Hugh Sellers, all seniors. Wayne Veal, the only junior chosen from Norman High School, seems overwhelmed.

Clowing around before their grand performance in the hootenanny are the members of the "Naughty Nine" plus one adoring fan.

Gripping members of the cast of The King and I pose after a great performance.

December

The Norman High School Chorus, directed by Mrs. White, brings in the Christmas spirit during the annual Christmas Assembly.

Steve Ayers helps the Tigers into a victorious season as he leaps to a victory over Chickasha.

Julie Lewis, Eric Vaughn, Jim Logan, and Tim Barrow stand by their winning door during the Christmas Door Decorating Contest.

Ray Hays, close to getting a pin, is under the careful observance of the referee.

Sophomores revert back to their childhood days as they play with the toys collected in the Toys for Tots drive.

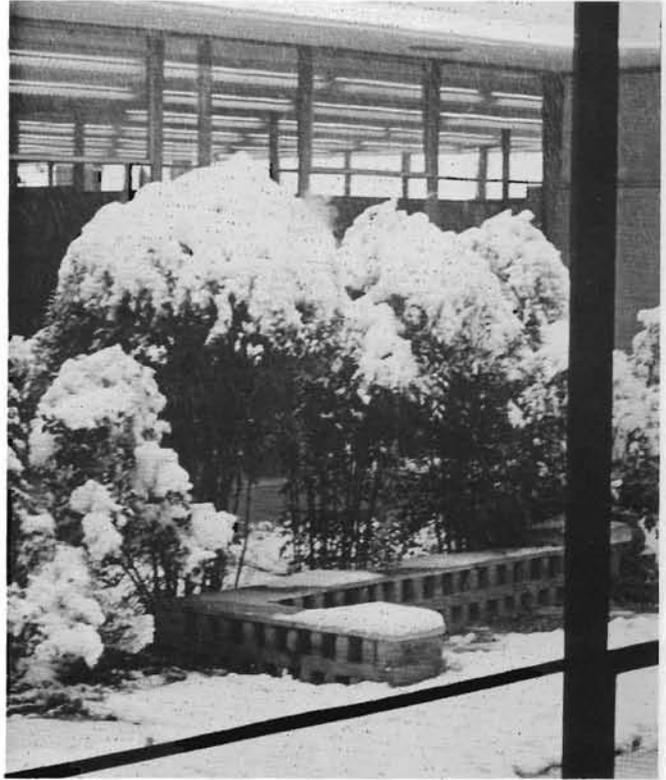

D'Anne Mount and Laura O'Connell celebrate the Christmas season as they chow down at the Office Club Christmas Party.

January

Don Harral and Mike Elder play "special agents" at the banquet honoring Mr. Daniel.

Norman High students get a beautiful view of the first snow of the year seen through the lightwell.

As usual, the sophomores practice diligently for the first annual All-School Variety Show.

Tiana Tackwell, Liz Blair, Cindy Waterbury, and Diana Heritage prepare the names for the All-Sport's Queen coronation.

February

Dick Porter, Sally Gregory, Barbara Orth, Jim Spiller, Liz Blair, and Mike Cloud relax at the "ole fishin' hole" in the All-School Variety Show.

Monty Brown seems to enjoy the fact that he is the "Ugliest Boy" in Norman High School.

"Her Majesty's Golden Realm" was the theme for this year's All-Sports Queen coronation.

Melissa Martin and Steve Tackwell pose for a picture after being "married" at the "Now or Never Dance."

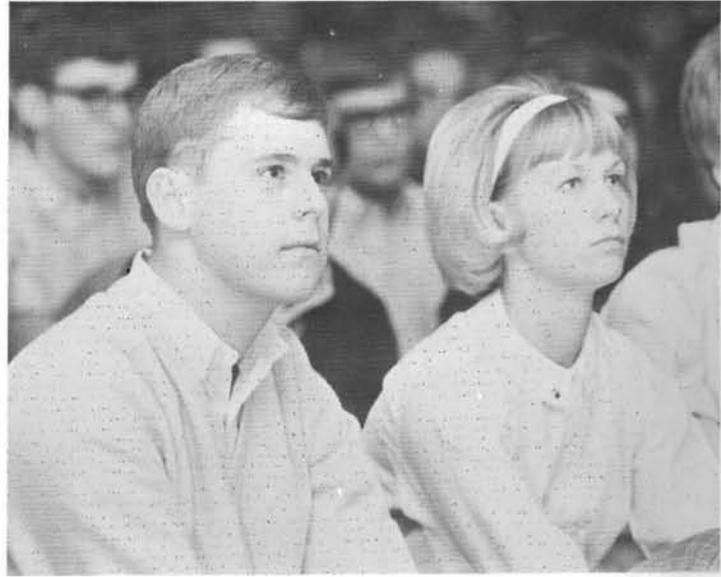

The vibrant sophomores were the victors in the annual tug of war during Now or Never week.

March

Phil Lamm from Oakridge, Tennessee, explains atomic fission in one of the March assemblies.

Steve Hetherington and Alverna Gill seem transfixed at one of the Student Council Hootenannys.

Dressed for spring, Jo Ann Roberts models one of the many new styles in the Junior Style Show.

Mary Jo Crockett exhibits some of her talent at the Hootenanny.

April

Roger Shell gets ready to throw another long one.

The queens crowned in April were Carol Hickman, FFA Queen; Virginia Hames, DE Queen; and Barbara Orth, All-School Queen.

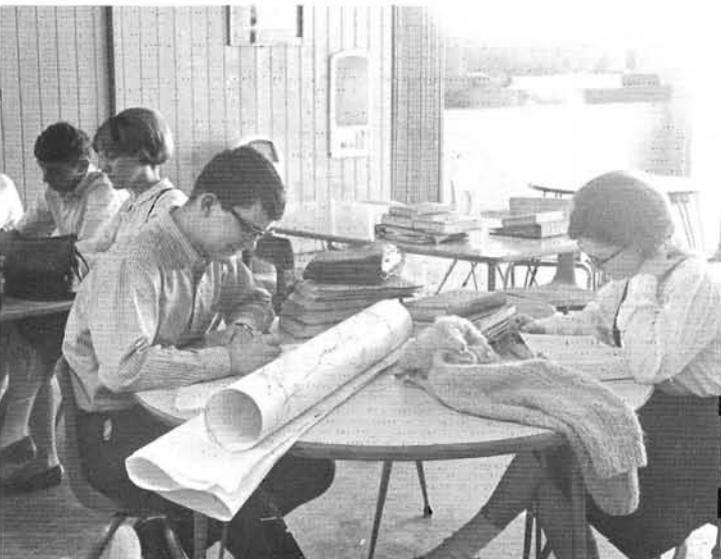

Skipping? Why, no, Mr. Young. We were just having a meeting of the Batman fan club.

The beautiful Junior-Senior Prom of 1965, with the theme "Shangri-La," will linger in the memories of all who attended it.

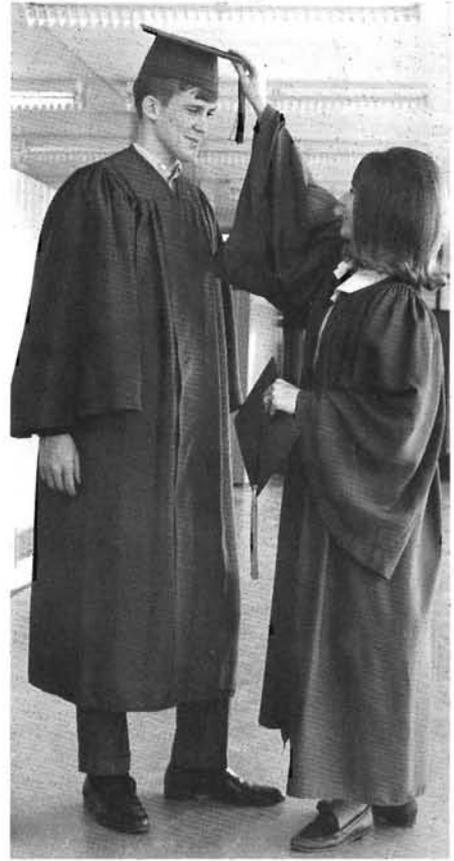

Albert Morris, Pat Boyd, Steve Hetherington, Mrs. Mosley, Alverna Gill, and Gigi Bolles work diligently on plans for the 1966 Junior-Senior Prom.

Cramming hard for their last finals of the year are Jerry Hulsey, Lisa Kimrey, Richard Hawk, and Kyle Hockman.

May

Mike Elder and Barbara Orth try on their caps and gowns in preparation for graduation.

Working on plans for the Annual Lettermen's Picnic are Barbara Orth, Nancy Bloomer, D'Anne Mount, Cindy Waterbury, Gail McCall, Taysha Taylor, and Wendy Meyer.

Seniors

Seniors sing and swing as Rob Ampsacher, Dave Southers, and Bill Haddock entertain at the Howdy Hop.

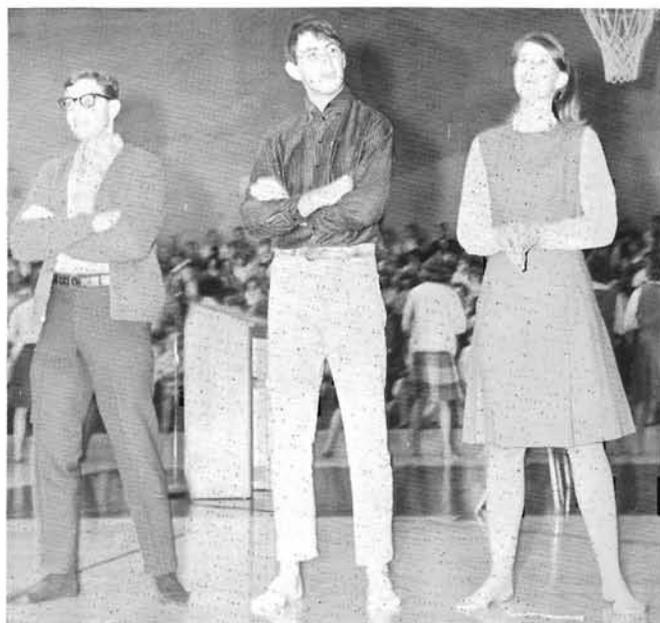

The Senior "pool-hall" gang greases around in the Variety Show.

Being Seniors seemed like the most wonderful thing;
We knew we would get our Norman High rings.
With determination and excitement we set the pace
For the juniors and sophomores to follow in place.

We worked very hard and had lots of fun;
As we excelled in our jobs, many victories we won.
Loving the ball games, the plays, and the dances,
We laughed and we cried over Senior romances.

Then came the end, and to our surprise
It came very quickly, bringing tears to our eyes.
With our hearts full of memories,
We now say good bye
To all of our dear friends
And great Norman High.

Seniors David Foster, John Creveling, and Susan Luttrell give a sneak preview of The King and I.

"Oh, Ronna, you didn't really write that, did you?" laughs Patsy Hoge to Ronna Riddle as Jean Holcomb, Carla Brewington and Wanda Reedy look on.

"Kenny, behave yourself! Zill is sitting right here." Paul Blevins, Ken Grubaugh, Mary Ann Pulte, Zill Coleman, and Ralph Jones act like typical Seniors.

Juniors

The middle of our high school life,
Was filled with work and play and strife.
We Juniors walked with our heads raised,
For all we did deserved much praise.
We worked all year, one goal to attain
So in the Senior's hearts, the prom would remain.

Soon graduation day will come,
And we will say goodbye to some.
This Senior class will not be here,
But we'll proudly take their place next year.
Until that time we'll do our best,
And when we're Seniors, we'll meet the test.

A group of Junior "cowpokes" welcome the newcomers as well as the oldtimers to the annual "Howdy Hop" which was held in September.

The Junior girls take advice from their "coach," Rita Stewart at the Junior Girls vs. the KOMA disc jockeys basketball game.

The All-Sports Queen, Miss Nancy Bloomer, is applauded by future All-School Queen, Barbara Orth.

Juniors are campaigning for a four-hour day in their presentation of "The High School Game" in the first annual All-School Variety Show.

Miss Jona Low models a spring ensemble at the Junior Style Show, "A Summer Place."

Sophomores

Sophomores entered Norman High
With shaky knees and gleaming eyes.

The first day at NHS seemed so strange;
They'd no idea of such a change.

Being sophomores meant many things;
Sometimes getting hurt feelings.

Each day they felt would be their last;
The Seniors made them feel outcast.

But nearer toward the end of school,
They knew as Juniors they'd soon rule.

And so with skill and determination,
They took their final examination.

They couldn't wait till next year came,
So as experienced Juniors they would reign.

Sophomore Gingersnaps take their part in the first victory march of the season.

Sophomores Enter NHS

Tina Burgett inspects a Christmas stocking for the annual door decorations.

Becca Poston, Chris Tapken and Marty Dixon provide fresh talent for this year's Hootenanny.